

ALL ENGLAND IS BUSY DONNING GALA DRESS FOR EVENTS ATTENDING KING'S CORONATION

Preparing to Greet the Hundreds of Thousands of Visitors.

INFLUX OF AMERICANS

Millions of Dollars Will Be Spent in Making It Country's Greatest Spectacle.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] London, May 7.—With but five days intervening between the expected British public and the first of a long line of royal entertainments and celebrations, beginning with the Festival of Empire on June 12, including the coronation on June 22, and closing with King George's presence at the laying of the cornerstone of the Welsh National Library at Aberystwyth, July 15, all England is busy donning the gala attire with which it will greet the hundreds of thousands of spectators, among whom will be numbered the crowned heads of Europe, their relatives, and delegations from every nation in the world, besides throngs of wealthy sightseers, who are even now flocking into London by every boat and train. Judging by the elaborate preparations and the earnest assurances of those in charge of the festivities, the coming pageants will eclipse anything attempted in modern times and vie with the festivals of the ancients in splendor, cost, and attendance. For months and months thousands of British subjects have been at work preparing for the great events at an expenditure of many millions of dollars. London is to be decorated as it never was before. There are to be parades,

The latest pictures of the King and Queen of England and the crown which will be used in the coronation ceremony at Westminster Abbey.

receptions at the royal court, horse shows, friendly contests between the military of visiting nations, entertainments by the elite of England, and decorations that will astonish the visitors by their lavish magnificence.

Few Will Witness It.

Despite the fact that the coronation is to be the piece de resistance in this list of events, there are very, very few who will witness the actual ceremony. This no doubt will prove a keen disappointment to many who have been led to understand that the actual ceremony of crowning the King and Queen will be open to all who have the price. Such is not the case. The coronation proper will take place within the sacred precincts of Westminster Abbey, with only members of the royal family of England and invited guests from among the crowned heads of Europe as spectators. A seat within the great cathedral cannot be bought for love or money.

The pebbled visitor need not be disappointed, however, for he will have many opportunities to gratify his curiosity relative to this country's new sovereigns. Five times during May and June Their Majesties will drive through the streets of London that all who have money for the extortionate charges demanded for seats of vantage may see, and praise or criticize their fancy dictates. These same high priced window seats will be filled largely by itinerant Americans as a foregone conclusion, for already one can scarcely walk a block without seeing dozens of faces and figures well known on the other side of the pond. In fact, so great has been the influx of curious Americans that one prominent British newspaper confidently asserts that there will be more sight-seers from the United States than native English visitors from the towns within, say, a day's journey of the metropolis.

A Great At-Home.
The festival of empire, with which England's King and Queen will greet visitors in a great "at-home," will be held at the Crystal Palace, a vast structure which has been elaborately decorated at a cost of over $1,000,000. This celebration will be the name of the influx of curious Americans that one prominent British newspaper confidently asserts that there will be more sight-seers from the United States than native English visitors from the towns within, say, a day's journey of the metropolis.

SHE WAS ALMOST CRAZY

Pitiful Tale of Rachel E. Mercer, With a Happy Ending—Due to Cardui, the Woman's Tonic.

Herford, W. Va.—"For about four years," writes Rachel E. Mercer, of this place, "I had suffered from female troubles."

"I would have the headache for a week at a time, until I would be nearly crazy. I had fainting spells and pains in my side. In fact, I was not able to work at all."

"A neighbor recommended Cardui, so I tried it, and the first bottle helped me. I continued its use, and now I never suffer with the headache any more."

"I know that Cardui will help every suffering woman. It has done more for me than any medicine I ever took."

While of especial benefit to women suffering from female ailments, Cardui may also be taken by all women, for general weakness, lassitude and debility.

Its action is that of a real tonic, more especially adaptable to women, and its building, strengthening action is so positive that good results are often noticed, as in the case of Miss Rachel Mercer, after taking the first bottle.

Your druggist will recommend Cardui if you ask him.

AFTER GAME AND DR. COOK PAPERS

Harry Whitney and Capt. Robert A. Bartlett to Head an Arctic Expedition.

WILL HUNT FOR RECORDS

Great Salmon Fishing Expected, and Sport of Lassoing Polar Bears Will Be Tried.

New York, May 7.—An attempt will be made incidentally to a hunting trip to determine if the records which Dr. Cook alleges he left at Etah are there. The expedition is being organized under the auspices of Harry Whitney, big game hunter, and under personal direction of Captain Robert A. Bartlett, who commanded the Roosevelt, the ship in which the Peary expedition sailed in search of the North Pole.

This announcement was made by Captain Bartlett yesterday in the office of A. L. Squires, No. 31 Nassau Street. Then he started for Boston, where he will be quartered at the City Club. The arrangements for the expedition are in an advanced state, and it will start in the middle or latter part of June. Captain Bartlett commanded the Boethic, on which Whitney and Paul J. Rainey made their trip last summer. Bartlett said that for the coming trip a new boat of the tonnage of the Roosevelt would be chartered. It is for this purpose he has gone to Boston. That harbor is a clearing place for ships of sufficient tonnage and stoutness to brave the northern waters.

There will be twenty bunks for the sportsmen who will make up the party. Fifteen young millionaires, whose names the captain does not care to reveal now, have joined in financing the expedition. Only two bunks are left, and the captain expects to fill them before he leaves Boston.

The expedition will be primarily for sport, but the members have the curiosity to see what the discredited explorer left at Etah. During the controversy Harry Whitney remained silent. His meeting with Cook at Etah, which has been talked about fully by the young sportsmen.

Whitney and Captain Bartlett plan to equip the new boat with paraphernalia in advance even of that of the Boethic. As a big game hunter's arsenal, the latter boat was considered novel. The lassoing of polar bears will be carried out still more extensively, and a full set of these ropes will be carried. It was with such a lariat that the Whitney-Rainey expedition captured Silver King, the immense polar bear afterward presented to the Bronx Zoo Park.

Looks for Big Salmon. Captain Bartlett expects that with good sailing the expedition will reach south coast of Labrador in six days. It is expected that the sport will be indulged in, and the sport there is unequalled anywhere else. The salmon weigh as much as thirty-five pounds, and the fish and the seal are "the finest eating in the world," Bartlett avers.

Along this coast the sportsmen will be guided by Bartlett to what he calls the best fresh water trout fishing in the world. He says the streams that jump down to the sea off the rugged coast are overfishing with those lightning fish.

After leaving Labrador the ship will go to Greenland, and will continue to the north of Ellesmere Land. The big game hunting will then begin in earnest, and thrilling work is expected. Aside from getting big game, one of Whitney's main objects is to capture a silver fox. None has been brought here in captivity. It is the rarest and most wary of the northern snow animals.

The polar bear will receive much attention, as the new sport of lassoing the fighting beast and landing them on the ship's deck with a hook and tackle is still in its infancy. Other creatures particularly sought will be the narwhal, walrus, caribou and musk ox.

Justice to the Doctor. Captain Bartlett said he was sure so true a sportsman as Whitney would not let the fact that Peary had been finally stamped as the discoverer of the Pole interfere with their doing justice to Dr. Cook if records were found.

In Boston the captain will buy fishing tackle. He purposes to equip the ship with the largest layout for fishing that has ever gone into northern waters. He is doing this because some of the young men who are going are more deeply interested in this sport than in hunting. Expeditions have been too much engrossed in the more vivid exposures to the Arctic, the water to pay close attention to the mysteries in its depths, he said.

A WIDOW'S LUCK

Quit the Thing That Was Slowly Injuring Her.

A woman tells how coffee kept her from suffering her life:

"I suffered for many years chiefly from trouble with my heart, with severe neuralgia, and with aching in the back, but although incapacitated at times for my household, I did not realize the gravity of my condition till I was rejected for life insurance, because the examining physician said my heart was so bad he could not pass me."

"This distressed me very much, as I was a widow and had a child dependent upon me. It was to protect her future that I wanted to insure my life."

"Fortunately for me, I happened to read an advertisement containing a testimonial from a man who had been affected in the same way that I was with heart trouble, and who was benefited by leaving off coffee and using Postum. I grasped at the hope this held out, and made the change at once."

"My health began to improve immediately. The headaches and neuralgia disappeared. I gained in flesh, and my appetite came back to me. Greatest of all, my heart was strengthened from the beginning, and soon all the distressing symptoms passed away. No more waking up in the night with my heart trying to fly out of my mouth!"

"Then I again made application for life insurance, and had no trouble in passing the medical examination."

"It was seven years ago that I began to use Postum, and I am using it still, and shall continue to do so, as I find it a guarantee of good health." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich. Read the big little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true and full of human interest.

DUKE'S MILLIONS BEHIND PROJECT

Will Sell American Cotton in China Direct to Consumer.

Peking, May 7.—Backed by the millions of James B. Duke, of the American Tobacco Company, a systematic campaign to promote the export of American cottons to China has been begun.

Mr. Duke, who is largely interested in Southern cotton mills, has developed a comprehensive plan to carry the goods direct from the mill to the consumer in Manchuria and other parts of the Chinese Empire, eliminating the middlemen, whose charges are regarded as largely responsible for American goods being unable successfully to compete with their Lancashire and Japanese rivals.

Plans were so quietly made that nothing was known at this end until very recently, when Shanghai importers found that Messrs. Mustard & Co. were placing large orders for cottons which they could not meet. This firm is the distributing agency of the British and American Tobacco Company for China and has a complete list of the mills in parts of the empire, furnishing exactly those facilities which the American cottons must have if they are not to be driven entirely from the market.

Mr. Duke's entry into the field has caused considerable alarm among the importers at Shanghai and other ports, but seems to give promise of a revival of the American cotton trade in China, which of recent years has so seriously declined.

he will name as first deputy, and is waiting until some action is taken giving permanence to his position. In case the Council decides to elect a Collector to serve until the general election, Mr. Hulse will have no opposition, though in the primary it is probable that there will be several candidates, including possibly one or more members of the Council, who would be eligible before the people, though not for an election by the Council of the Council. As first deputy in the office Mr. Hulse drew a salary of $1,500 a year.

SAYS LIFE RODE TO EARTH AS STAR DUST

No Men But for Light Rays, Swedish Savant Declares in Chicago.

Chicago, Ill., May 7.—Professor Svante August Arrhenius, director of the physico-chemical department of the Nobel Institute, near Stockholm, Sweden, and president of the Nobel Foundation, said here:

"Life originated on the earth through the medium of other planets, particularly what we call the yellow stars. Were it not for the stars there would be no life here. The germs of the lowest forms of being traveled to this planet through the interstellar space as star dust and on the light rays. Thus it is that man is remotely the product of the stars, for as the lowlier life was developed throughout the ages, humanity resulted."

"The yellow stars are the best life producers. Arcturus, the largest yellow star, is the best. It is 50,000 times as large as the sun. It takes its light 160 years to reach the earth."

"The star dust is forced into space by the light rays emanating from the planet, and, striking rays earth bound, may be literally forced here."

LOSE MILLIONS ON WHEAT

Armour's and Lieberman's Bull Claque Routed by Unexpected Deliveries.

Chicago, May 7.—It is estimated that between $2,000,000 and $4,000,000 was sold down by the week when the bulls, including J. Ogden Armour and Adolph Lieberman, practically threw up their hands and permitted the market to go to pieces.

The collapse of the bull movement came when May wheat, which opened at $1.27, sold down to $1.23 and closed at $1.22. Compared with the closing price of Friday this represented a drop of 4 cents.

The decline was brought about by the fact that people owning wheat are anxious to dispose of it because of ideal conditions for a bumper crop in the winter wheat belt. They simply threw untold amounts of wheat on the market at around $1, and to the utter discomfiture of the bull leaders.

Not since Joseph Leiter's deal of a few years ago have sections of Northern Michigan offered any cash wheat to this market. But the week when the bulls, including J. Ogden Armour and Adolph Lieberman, practically threw up their hands and permitted the market to go to pieces.

James A. Patten has aligned himself on the bear side of the market, and with him have been Arthur Cullen, W. R. Linn and the Bartlett, Fraser

REVOLT SPREADING IN CHINA

Revolutionaries Threaten Sheikung.

Canton, China, May 7.—The revolutionaries are threatening Sheikung, on the East River, fifty-seven miles north of Hong Kong and forty-five miles east of this city. The authorities have dispatched troops to intercept them. The above is the first news dispatch received direct from Canton since the revolutionary outbreak on the night of April 27. It tends to confirm last night's advices from Hong Kong, which represented the rebels in great strength in the district to the east of Canton and north of Hong Kong. The dispatch also said that 150 revolutionists had arrived at Canton from Saigon, which would indicate a boldness on their part inconsistent with the official advice to the effect that the authorities at the capital of the province had the situation well in hand. This is improbable, an erroneous report having arisen, possibly from contact with and confusing Chinese rumors. It is much more likely the revolutionaries arrived at Hong Kong, which has direct communication with Saigon by a line of French steamers.
